

Spring 2008
Econ 175a
Homework 3 (Due on March 27)

This assignment helps you gear up for the term research project that is due on April 17. Again, you need to form a group of three to five.

1. First, refresh what you have learned in class on using counterfactuals and what constitutes a good research project.
2. Each person in turn explains to your group about your research project and on how you plan to tackle the question raised in your research proposal. Ask other members to offer their critique and write down the comments and suggestions that you think are helpful.
3. After group discussion, revise your original research proposal. Clearly state your research question and outline your research plan. Make it within 200 words.
4. Hand in two things on Thursday: one page of summary of critique (double-spaced), and one page of revised research proposal.

Reminder: a copy of research paper guideline can be found at:
http://econlearning.com/paper_guideline.html